DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Matthews Brown, U. S. Patent 6,640,977.
3. Matthews Brown teaches a cover 58 or base 300 for a pillow 50 and 200, respectively. The base member comprises a column 306 having a top end and a bottom end; a strap 302, 304, and 306 extending between the top end of the column and the bottom end of the column; the strap and the column defining an aperture; and the aperture being dimensioned to receive the pillow. (See figures 13, 14, and 19, Column 10, lines 18-46 and Column 13-, lines 31-49).
4. With respect to claim 2, 19, Matthews Brown teaches a pillow 50 and 200.
5. With respect to claim 3-5, 13-16, 21-22, Matthews Brown teaches the width of the cover 58 and base 300 are dimensioned such that the two arms 54 and 56 and 206 and 208 extend beyond a first and second side of the column. As seen in figures 13 and 19, the surface area of the arms 54, 56, 206, and 208 are greater than surface area of the pillow covered by the cover or base.
6. With respect to claim 6, the pillow has not been positively claimed.

7. With respect to claim 7, 17, 18, Matthews Brown teaches the cover is adapted to hold the pillow from a hanger. Since Matthews Brown does not mention any other retaining means, it is inherent that the pillow is held by the frictional force between the cover and the pillow.

8. With respect to claim 8, since the cover is adapted to hold the pillow from a hanger it is inherent that the cover is adapted to hold the weight of the pillow.

9. With respect to claims, 9-11 and 23-25, Matthews Brown teaches that the “[I]n the packaging configuration of Figures 15 and 17-19, a variety of pillows having a variety of shapes and sizes may be used”. (Column13, lines 50-52). With this in mind, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to construct the cover or base of a size to correspond to the size of the pillow being held.

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The following U. S. and Japanese Patent are cited to show holder for plush items: US 4,257,522; US006685024B1, JP409322998A, and JP409294895A.
